SUNDAY SPENT AT STE. ANNE'S

C.O.T.C. 5th Overseas and Macdonald College Together.

USEFUL AND ENJOYABLE

Day Cold and Work Hard, But All Return Well Pleased With the Experience.

The epithet, "the best yet," is too trite and inadequate to apply to the trip that was made yesterday to Ste. Anne de Bellevue by the McGill C.O.T.C. in conjunction with the 5th Universities Overseas Company for a series of manoeuvres which included a variety of action most instructive and likewise enjoyable. While, as was to be expected, much of the work was not carried out in veteran fashion, devoid of mistakes and mishaps, the advantage gained by all in the matter of learning some few of the tricks of soldiering was perhaps all the more marked.

The units represented when the whole body bivouacked off Morgan's Point to answer the mid-day call of the inner man were the 5th Overseas, the C.O.T.C. and the Macdonald College contingent of the C.O.T.C. The whole force was under the command of Lieut.-Col. Robert Starke, with Captain J. C. Simpson as staff officer, Major C. C. Harrington in command of the McGill Contingent, Major C. M. McKergow in command of the Universities Company, and Major F. C. Harrison in command of the Macdonald College Contingent. Lieut.-Col. A. A. Magee, O.C., and Major A. S. Eve, second in command of the 148th Overseas Battalion, acted as umpires.

Besides these, there were officers from other battalions, eight from the 148th and two from the Westmount Rifles, who accompanied the men from start to finish, some to offer useful criticism, others to learn.

The entire management of the trip was carried out with only a few minor hitches, and, according to orders, the issuing of hot coffee was done, so far as could be seen, with "order" and comparative "equity."

Sharp at 9 o'clock in the morning the battalion fell in at the old High School, and after the solicited platoon commanders, sergeant-majors and remaining N. C. O.'s had satisfied themselves that the knapsacks of their men were properly filled, the whole body marched out and down to the Windsor Station.

The journey out was accomplished in peace and quietness, and the detachment, as the detachment had been, was done with praiseworthy dispatch. At the Ste. Anne's station, the battalion fell in line facing south-east, and after the stoves, etc., were unloaded, the different sections of the men marched off to their positions to the semi-frozen tines of the well-meaning band.

The work for the day divided itself into two main parts, that before and that after lunch. The general idea of the operations was that a hostile Blue Force had been reported at Caledonia Springs, Ont., and was proceeding down the Ottawa River and across the Lake of Two Mountains. This information had been received on Saturday, and Lieut.-Col. Starke had been ordered to proceed to Ste. Anne's with the force under his command (Red Detached Force), and thence across the ice to a small bay just north of Morgan's Point at Senneville, to forestall the Blue Force as it crossed the Lake of Two Mountains.

On leaving the station at Ste. Anne's the force proceeded along the Senneville road and on to the ice at Clouston's Point, protected by advanced flank and rear guards, under Captain B. H. Porteous, Captain W. Molson and Lieut. Tyndale, respectively, and in this formation proceeded to its destination. During this part of the operations, intercommunication was maintained between all parts of the force, and some useful practice was obtained in assuming the formations adapted to meet various kinds of fire.

Arrived at Morgan's Point, the men bivouacked and a lunch was eaten. Whilst the men were lunching, information was received that a small party of the hostile Blue Force was already in position on the Golf Links at Senneville, and the officer commanding the Red Force decided to attack them at once, and issued orders accordingly. "D" Company, McGill C.O.T.C., under command of Capt. W. W. Robinson and Capt. H. M. McDougall, had already marched off and taken up this position, and during the remainder of the day acted as the Blue Force.

The Red Force was now divided so as to deliver simultaneous frontal and flank attacks. The frontal attack was made by the 5th Universities Company under Major McKergow, whilst the

Says That the Weather Is Fairly Warm: Expects To Go Into Trenches Soon.

James K. Wilson, of Science '17, who went overseas last spring with the 27th Battery, writes as follows from Belgium:

"Just a few lines to let you know how things are progressing. Received your card at Christmas and was very glad to get it. Thanks ever so much also for the cigarettes. I acknowledged them some time ago, but the letter might have gone astray.

"Ken Jencks, Bill MacLean and a few others and myself are up with an old battery to learn how they do things. We have been here nearly a week; expect to go back to our battery to-morrow. I suppose we will take up a position sometime during the week. In fact, I know we are going to relieve this battery soon.

"Went down to see Lawrence Mahaffy and Art Goodeve the day before yesterday. Saw several of the boys—Jimmie Lalanne, Herb Rittenhouse, etc.

"Bill Morris came up to see us today. Went to see Norman Thompson a couple of days ago, but he is away on leave. Saw Gordie Campbell while I was there, also Beasisto.

"Ken and I were up in the first line trenches most of the afternoon; called on Sam Mathewson and Art Grafty. They took us all along this front. Did not see a German, nor did I give them a chance to see me. The trenches are 35 yards apart one place, but nobody ever shows a head. Capt. Molson said he hadn't seen a German yet, and you know how long he has been over.

"Hannington, who took first year with us, is a lieutenant in this battery. Tommy Williams and Harry Beattie are also up with a battery for instruction. I saw Don MacFarlane a week before I left England. There is not very much doing in the way of fighting just now, but I expect there will be soon.

"We are having fairly good weather and it is quite warm. Ken and I were in a small store about 6 o'clock tonight waiting for some eggs, when a shell fell about one hundred yards down the road. The old lady rushed in, grabbed the money box and put everybody out, saying she was going to the cellar. Her daughter said our eggs were in the kitchen, so we went out there and had a great feed—all the bread and coffee we could eat and drink and each two eggs for two francs and sixpence.

AMERICAN CLUB TO HOLD SMOKER

Washington's Birthday To Be Celebrated at Alexandra Cafe.

The American Club smoker will be held at the Alexandra Cafe at 7:30 to-morrow evening. All arrangements have been made with the manager of the cafe, and one of the most enjoyable evenings that the club has had this year is looked forward to. Already many of the American boys have expressed their intentions of being present, but every one is expected to turn out to enjoy the evening and to help celebrate Washington's birthday.

"The price of the evening, including a glorious feed and smokes galore, has been placed at seventy-five cents.

The members of the R. V. C. Red Cross Society are reminded that there will be gauze folding in the common room to-morrow afternoon from 2:30 to 5. Only a very few attended the last day, and it is hoped that there will be many workers to-morrow.

MCGILL LOSES; JUNIORS WIN

Intermediates Lose Lead By Dropping N. B. Game.

SECOND TEAM A SURPRISE

Defeat North Branch in a Very One-Sided Game By a Large Score.

Two surprises were sprung in the Provincial League games at the Central Y.M.C.A., when the McGill Intermediates went down to defeat to the North Branch team, and the juniors won their game by a very large score. The intermediates lost by 26 to 15.

The intermediate game started off at a fairly slow pace, with North Branch having by far the best of the play. North Branch scored a foul for the first point in the game. Craig made a pretty shot for the first field goal. Pitts scored for McGill. Score, 3 to 2 for North Branch. McQuaig, defence for North Branch, played a fine game at this time, breaking up most of McGill's passes. Craig shot three more in a very short time. He was playing a fine game and ran wild, with no one on the McGill team a side to cover him. North Branch scored on a foul. Heartz played a fine game and seemed to be the only man who played up to his ordinary standard at this period. Pitts scored another. Heartz scored a difficult one. Score, 10 to 6 for North Branch. Ugham was beginning to play better, but stayed down the floor too long. Craig scored again with no one covering him. North Branch scored on a foul. Denman scored the last basket of the half. Score, 15 to 6 for North Branch. The last few minutes of the half, the McGill team went to pieces entirely and only had shooting on the part of North Branch prevented a large score. McGill were forced to play in white jerseys because of the similarity in colors between those of the North Branch and McGill. This undoubtedly was one of the reasons for their poor passing and lack of team work. Almost invariably they would pass to a man in a red jersey, mistaking him for a team-mate. The fact that last Tuesday's practice was so poorly attended may have had something to do with it also.

In the second half, Kearns replaced Duncan at guard. The McGill line-up was also shifted somewhat. Heartz going in at centre, J. Ferguson playing guard, and Ugham going up to forward. The change seemed to be well advised, as the McGill team improved wonderfully in this half. Denman scored almost immediately. McGill and North Branch both scored fouls. Craig got loose again and scored. Heartz scored. Ugham scored for the first time. North Branch got a foul. Denman scored. North Branch got another foul. Pitts shot a clean basket. McGill scored a foul. Craig scored the last basket of the game. Final score, 26 to 15 for North Branch. The same nervousness and poor team work was noticeable in this half, but not to as great an extent as before.

The star of the game was undoubtedly Craig, of North Branch, though McQuaig played a game at defence that was little short of wonderful. Heartz was the most consistent performer for McGill.

The loss of the game on Saturday means a triple tie for first place, between Central, North Branch and McGill. If McGill wins next Saturday, a play-off will be necessary either with Central or North Branch. The line-up was:

McGill.	North Branch.
Heartz forward	Craig
Pitts forward	Denman
J. Ferguson centre	Wallace
H. Ferguson defence	Duncan
Ugham defence	McQuaig

The Junior Game.

The juniors furnished quite a surprise when they defeated the North Branch juniors to the tune of 24 to 8. The game opened with the McGill boys showing far better class than their opponents. McGill scored on a foul. Corviveau scored. Loughery scored. Davis scored a foul. Clarke scored. McGill's passing and general team work was better than any earlier this season, and bewildered the North Enders continually. Loughery scored another. Loughery was playing in most unusual form and did the larger part of the passing at this period. Elliott scored. McGill scored a foul. Loughery scored. Score at the end of the period was 13 to 2 for McGill.

Duncan replaced Allan in the second half. The change was a good one, as North Branch picked up considerably in this half. Loughery started the scoring for McGill after

Artillery Talk

Each day brings with it the addition of several names to the Roll of Honor of McGill men enlisted for active service, and with each succeeding week one or more McGill men receive distinctions for gallantry on the battlefield. All this points to the fact that McGill has done notably well in its contribution to the fighting forces of the Empire, and that among her representatives in Flanders, in Gallipoli, and in Macedonia, there are not a few who have done such good work as has singled them out for recognition in despatches and War Office announcements.

The McGill Roll of Honor stands now at well over 1,300 names, and there is no reason to believe that that Roll will not increase until a larger percentage of students, past students and graduates will have signified their willingness to fight the Empire's battles. The Roll of Honor is eminently satisfactory, but it is for us to see if it cannot be bettered, and kept in the position which it now occupies. How best can this be done?

When Spring comes and the session is concluded, there will undoubtedly be a large number of students who, with their courses or their years completed, will be in a position to join the colors. Many of us will not be free to follow our inclinations or wishes, but there will still remain a proportion of men desiring to enlist, and sufficient in number to form a respectable-sized unit. Could not some means be contrived by which these men could be accommodated, as they would desire, with a unit distinctively McGill in composition and character?

In reply to this question, The McGill Daily would respectfully suggest to the proper authorities that something be done towards the organization of a University unit of artillery, Heavy artillery, if possible, in which McGill men could enlist with the assurance of congenial companionship among their fellows, men with whom they have been associated in their studies and have come to know. Such a unit would have the added advantage of providing training upon which the technical knowledge of a University man could most appropriately be brought to bear.

It is apparent, judging from the small student enlistment in the later Universities Companies, that life in the ranks of the infantry does not recommend itself to University men. Artillery is therefore proposed, because this branch of the service would make the strongest appeal to members of the student body who are at liberty to enlist. All those who desire them, cannot secure commissions. There is a certain proportion of these men who would never make efficient officers, but surely their intelligence, developed by their studies, would fit them for service in such a branch as artillery, where their education could be put to use. Artillery is a branch of the service which demands highly-trained men of more than average intelligence.

The suggestion which The McGill Daily here makes is not new. For some time there has been talk—but little else—of the formation of a unit of artillery to be officered and filled by McGill men. The Daily is informed that in some classes of the Faculty of Arts a canvass has been made with a view to learning the number of men who would be willing and ready to serve in such a unit, and that the result of this canvass has been most gratifying. No attempt at a general canvass of the entire University has, however, been made, nor has any publicity been given to the scheme. The Faculty of Applied Science, where the largest number of recruits would most probably be found, has not been touched. From careful investigation, however, The McGill Daily feels confident that the result of such a canvass would be most satisfactory, and that sufficient backing would be received to go ahead with further arrangements.

Now, before students and graduates drift to other units in their desire for service, is the time for action. A few weeks more and the session will be ended, and students will be scattered all over the face of Canada. At this late date, indeed, action, quick and decisive, will be necessary to accomplish the desired end.

MORSE HALL DESTROYED.

Cocals Served Hot Coffee to Fire Lads and Students at Cornell Fire.

Morse Hall, in which the Cornell Department of Chemistry was located, was destroyed by fire this week. The loss is close to $250,000, and in addition research work of great value was destroyed. A large quantity of chemicals and apparatus purchased in Germany, which cannot be replaced will be lost.

The fire started in the third floor of the building, presumably in a photographic room. Inadequate water pressure so handicapped the department that there was no chance of saving the building. Some three hundred students formed a salvage line and rescued 5,000 books from the library of the first floor and also the department records. J. C. Ashmead, of the basketball team, saved $1,000 worth of radium. A feature of the fire was the work done by cads, who served hot coffee and sandwiches to the firemen and students.

Morse Hall and its annexes were built at a cost of about $250,000. Andrew Carnegie gave $60,000 for the latest annex. The university carries about $250,000 worth of insurance.

SERGT. CHARLES G. MCDUGALL, '13, WINS D.C.M.; GRADUATES TALK OF KHAKI RE-UNION IN LONDON LIEUTENANT-COLONEL YATES BURIED WITH MILITARY HONOURS

Sergt. McDougall Was Publicly Thanked by Gen. Alderson for Part He Took at Langemark; Also Took Part in Recent Daring Exploit With Artillery; Eugene P. Cowles, '10, Points Out the Opportunities for College-Trained Mining Engineers in South Africa; Name of Prof. E. Fabre Surveyor, '96, Mentioned in Connection With Vacant Judgeship.

The Distinguished Conduct Medal for valor on the field has been awarded to Sgt. Charles Gordon ("Dooley") McDougall, Sci. '13, serving with the 4th Battery, 5th Brigade, C.F.A., in France. The name of Sergt. McDougall appears in the recently issued honors list of the Canadian forces posted at London.

Stories of the unusual activity and gallantry of Sergeant McDougall, who was graduated in Electrical in 1913, and took the British Association medal and prize, have from time to time reached McGill, but it is not known for what particular incident he was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal. For one thing, it is known that after the battle of Langemark he and twelve others were publicly thanked for some valuable service by General Alderson, while he was a member of the gun crew which, under Lieut. Ollie Mowatt, of Campbellton, N.B., a few weeks ago, carried out a hair-raising exploit in connection with the shelling at the range of a trench full of German infantry.

Sergt. McDougall, whose regimental number of 42,053, is a son of the late Fulton McDougall, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada at Moncton, N.B. He was employed at Peterboro, Ont., when war broke out, and immediately enlisted as a gunner in the overseas draft of the 5th Peterboro Battery. He is noted as an athlete.

Re-Union Is Discussed.

The possibility of a re-union of McGill men in London after the declaration of peace may to some appear a remote one, but it certainly did not to Eugene P. Cowles, Sci. '10, and four other McGill graduates who had dinner together in London not long ago and talked the matter over. The four graduates in khaki were Capt. Harry Vuill, M.C., Sci. '09, now staff captain, Royal Engineers; Lieutenant Norman Thompson, Sci. '11, Canadian Field Artillery; Lieut. J. K. Wyman, Sci. '10, Royal Engineers, and Lieut. W. W. Raymond, Sci. '12, Tunnelling Company, Canadian Engineers. At this dinner it was suggested that the real place for a McGill re-union after the war would be London, where 1,300 men in khaki would make a fine showing.

That there are all sort of opportunities for the young mining engineer in the South African gold-fields, was the statement made to the McGill Daily by Mr. Cowles, late mine captain of the Princess Estates & Gold Mining Co. at Roodepoort, near Johannesburg. Mr. Cowles is back in Canada for a few days before he goes to England to take out a commission in one of the tunnelling companies of the Royal Engineers.

Opportunities in Africa.

Mr. Cowles went to South Africa after graduating from McGill. With him went two other McGill graduates, C. S. McLean, Sci. '10, and Max Archibald, Sci. '10, now a second lieutenant in the 170 Tunnelling Company, Royal Engineers. Other McGill men on the Rand are G. C. Jones, Sci. '12, who tried five times to join the German East Africa expedition, but was turned down because of defective eyesight, and Dr. S. M. Dickson, Arts '04, Med. '08, attached to one of the mines. Harry S. Ball, Sci. '11, left some time ago and is now serving as second lieutenant in 170 Tunnelling Company, Royal Engineers.

Advance in the industry is very rapid owing to the number of the mines and the great difficulty in securing technically trained men to fill the junior positions. Mr. Cowles had no hesitation in saying that all young graduates could very quickly be found positions. As a mining camp, he said, the Rand is one of the finest in the world, due to its proximity to Johannesburg. Everybody is a sportsman, and tennis and other sports are played the year round. "In fact," said Mr. Cowles, "we often think that young South Africa thinks more of his tennis and so forth than of his work."

Lieut.-Col. Yates' Funeral.

With impressive military honors, the body of Lieut.-Colonel Henry Brydges Yates, Med. '33, second in command and company officer of No. 3 Canadian General Hospital (McGill), was laid to rest in the family vault in Mount Royal Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

Lieut.-Col. Yates, who was until he left Canada lecturer in bacteriology in the Faculty of Medicine, died on January 23 at Ramsgate, England. The funeral took place from Christ Church Cathedral, Rev. Dr. Symonds, vicar of the Cathedral, conducted the service, assisted by the Very Rev. Dean Evans in the absence of Bishop Farthing, chaplain of the Victoria Rifles, the old regiment of the dead officer.

The service, which began at two o'clock, was very impressive, and was attended by representatives of all religions, for Dr. Yates was well and widely known.

With reversed arms, four non-commissioned officers of the 3rd Victoria Rifles stood on guard over the remains during the morning. The casket was covered with floral tributes from the University, the city regiments and the overseas units in training in the city, and from the officers of the headquarters staff, the city and overseas battalions. The pulpit of the church was draped with a Union Jack—the flag that draped the casket as it was conveyed on the gun carriage to the cemetery.

Full Military Honors.

The service lasted about three-quarters of an hour. At 2.45 o'clock the funeral procession, headed by the band of the 3rd Victoria Rifles, moved off on the march to the cemetery. The coffin was placed on a gun carriage drawn by seven horses, mounted by a detachment of men from the 21st Westmount Battery, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Baker. Behind the gun carriage was the deceased officer's charger.

Behind the band of the Victoria

Rifles came 300 men of the 73rd Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Canada, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Peers Davidson, Arts '20, Law '33, the escort and firing party.

Several carriages of floral tributes came next and immediately behind was the gun carriage bearing the casket. Following the gun carriage walked the relatives of the dead officer, and behind were the representatives of the city and overseas units with the junior officers in the lead.

Brig.-Gen. E. W. Wilson, G.O.C., representing the Governor-General, followed the officers in the cortege. The pall-bearers, representing every branch of the service, were:

Lt.-Col. Schneider, of the Cavalry; Lieut.-Col. Costigan, O.C. of the 6th Brigade; Lieut.-Col. J. Cooper, of the Grenadier Guards; Lieut.-Col. F. M. McRobie, of the Victoria Rifles; Lt.-Col. C. N. Monserratt, of the 5th Royal Highlanders; Lieut.-Col. J. P. Ostell, of the 65th Carbineers; Lieut.-Col. H. Tribey, of the Irish Rangers; Lieut.-Col. Peters, of the Ambulance Corps.

Serving With Engineers.

C. C. Lindsay, Sci. '15, enlisted as sapper in the Canadian Engineers, and on reaching England received a lieutenancy in the Royal Engineers. He is now serving with that branch of the service in Egypt and not in the Dardanelles, as previously reported. The marriage of Miss Ethel Beat-

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS—

Gentlemen: Your Directors have pleasure in presenting the Sixty-Ninth Annual Report of the affairs of the Bank and the result of its operations for the year ending December 31st, 1915.

The net profits for the year were $220,266.99, and the balance brought forward from last year's Profit and Loss Account was $64,785.56, making a total of $285,052.55. From this amount have been paid four quarterly dividends to our Shareholders, and $3,900 has been contributed to the Canadian and Imperial Red Cross, leaving a balance at the credit of Profit and Loss Account of $121,551.75 to be carried forward to next year.

Your Directors regret to inform you that, on account of ill health, your President, the Honorable J. ALDERIC OUTMET, has deemed it expedient to tender his resignation as President of this Bank.

The Board feels sure that it expresses the sentiments of the Shareholders in wishing the President to enjoy an early and complete recovery, and that he may thus be enabled to give this Institution the benefit of his valuable experience.

Your Directors have to record, with sincere regret, the death of their colleague, MR. ROBERT ARCHER, a Director of this Bank for thirteen years, whose services were highly appreciated by the Board.

As usual, a frequent and thorough inspection of the books and assets of the Bank has been made during the year.

The report of the Auditors and the Balance Sheet are herewith submitted.

ROBERT MACKAY, Vice-President.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

Having obtained all the information and explanations we have required, and having satisfied ourselves of the correctness of the Cash Balances, and examined the investments of the Bank, and having examined the foregoing Income Statement and compared it with the Books at the Head Office, and with the Certified Returns from the Branches, we are of the opinion that the transactions during the year are such as to be the same as last year.

Moved by H. Gerin-Lajoie and seconded by Clarence F. Smith that Messrs. A. Cinq-Mars and Charles A. Shannon be named Auditors for the ensuing year, their remuneration as such to be the same as last year.

The election of Directors was then proceeded with. Messrs. W. R. Miller and H. Gerin-Lajoie, Scrutineers, declared the Board re-elected as follows: Hon. J. Alder, Hon. Senator R. Mackay, Richard Bolton, G. N. Moncel, Hon. Senator R. Dandurand, Hon. C. J. Doherty, Hon. Sir Lomer Gouin, Donald H. Hinzton, Fred. W. Molson, Clarence F. Smith.

*New director replaces Mr. Robert Archer.

At subsequent Meeting of the Board, Hon. Senator R. Dandurand was elected President and Hon. Senator R. Mackay Vice-President. Hon. Senator Mackay was proposed for the Presidency, but declined, and moved that Hon. Senator Dandurand be elected in his stead, which was carried.

VICTORIA COLLEGE GIRLS WIN GAME

Defeat Representatives From Macdonald By Handsome Margin.

The match against Macdonald College, for which the R.V.C. hockey team have been practising for the past month or more, was played Saturday morning on the R.V.C. rink. The visitors arrived by an early train, but Friday night's heavy fall of snow had to be cleared away, so the match did not begin before twelve o'clock. As it was, patches of snow on the ice interfered with the players' progress and made rather a slow game.

The match was divided into three ten-minute periods. During the first period, the players had not got used to the snowy ice, so the game was rather wild, and no score was made. Most of the play during this period was round the Macdonald goal, and Miss Lee at point and Miss Macfarlane in goal showed some very fine defence work. After a ten-minute interval, the teams took the ice, and during this period the play was much better. The players realized that the fault of the first period had been in not keeping their places, and they set to work to remedy it at once. The combination of the forwards was very good. Miss Rea Potter scored two goals for the R.V.C. during this period, and both goals were won by pure hard work. There were no spectacular rushes up the ice only to lose the puck in front of the opposing goal. After this period some of the players were pretty well puffed and were very glad of a rest.

During the last ten minutes both teams were very much on their mettle. The Macdonald people were anxious to make the best of their opportunities, and even the score, but the defence of R.V.C. was too strong for them. In fact, the tables were turned on them, and Miss Macfarlane got away with the puck and a free sheet of ice, it is up to the R.V.C. girls to get themselves into a condition where they can stand a good deal of hard skating. As it is, they have improved wonderfully, and the coaches are to be congratulated on the team they have made out of the material offered them at the beginning of the year.

The line-up was as follows:

STUDENTS TRAIN FOR "GYM" PRIZE

Large Number of Men to Compete for Gymnastic

Considerable enthusiasm was evinced at Saturday's special practice for the Wicksteed gymnastic competition.

The period started with work on the horse and low bar, and then some special work was done on the more difficult movements of the gymnastic drills and dances.

The following men were out: Aggiman, Klein, Lowry, Wagner, Usher, Gould, Weibel, Stewart, Bishop, Anderson, McGreer, Copeland, Fitzgerald, Betourney and Stuart.

Most of the men have now mastered the "set" movements and from now on attention will chiefly be paid to developing form on these movements as well as the working up of the voluntary exercises.

Competition promises to be especially keen for Dr. Harvey's trophy for the first year. There are no less than twelve students practising for this division of the competition, and from the form so far displayed, it is very difficult to prophesy a winner. Some candidates are strong on the apparatus work and weak on the drills and dances, and vice versa, and it is here that the all-round performer with a fair degree of ability in all branches is going to have the advantage.

The special practices are to be continued throughout this week as usual—Tuesday, 4.30-5.30; Thursday, 5.30-6.30; Saturday, 4.30-5.30. In addition to these hours, ample opportunity will be provided during the regular class periods, 5.30-6.15 on the same days for practice, either on the apparatus or floor work.

The next practice is to-morrow at 4.30.

JUNIORS PLAY TIE WITH SHAMROCKS

Played Thirty Minutes of Overtime Without Either Team Scoring.

On Saturday afternoon, in the Arena, the McGill juniors and the Shamrocks battled for seventy minutes without scoring a goal.

Two twenty-minute halves were played with no result, and thirty minutes of overtime failed to produce a score. The game was fast and clean, but was mainly a defensive one. Both teams lacked combination, and all the rushing was done by one man at a time. The star of the game was the Shamrocks' goalkeeper, who stopped a great many shots that looked like sure scores. Stewart, in goal for McGill, also starred, but his defence played well in front of him, and he had very few close shots to stop.

The game started with McGill rushing matters, but they could not penetrate the Shamrock defence. After several minutes of play, Fraser tried a shot on a pass from Lowry. It looked very much as if he had scored, but the goal judge declared it was no goal. This was the only time during the whole game that any trouble was caused. The McGill men were sure the puck had hit the net and rebounded. The goal judge's decision

WHAT OFFICERS HAVE TO SAY

Lieut.-Col. Starke, O.C.

Lieut.-Col. Robert Starke, O.C. McGill Contingent, C.O.T.C., expressed himself as extremely pleased with the sum total of the day's experience and work, and especially with the spirit and good condition shown by the men who all returned in fine fettle and none the worse for their outing.

Major McKergow, Senior Major.

Major McKergow commanded the 5th Universities Overseas, and characterized the work as "excellent." He paid special tribute to the work of the Scouts and Quartermaster's Stores, who had to do their tasks under very difficult conditions.

Major Harrington, Junior Major.

Major Harrington was equally enthusiastic in his estimate. He described it as first rate, with vastly improved discipline on the part of the men, and he also added an extra good word for the work of the N.C.O.'s. The great advantage offered by the work was the glimpse obtained of the possibilities of active service for men and officers. Major Harrington is reserving his criticism of technicalities for Tuesday night.

Capt. Simpson, Adjutant.

The Adjutant of the C.O.T.C. echoed the general sentiment of satisfaction expressed by the other officers. He was impressed by the cheerful countenances and general energy of every body concerned. While, of course, there were some inevitable hitches, the operations showed a marked improvement and indicated the progress being made by the C.O.T.C. The men are learning well and quite clearly the method of work is on the right track.

Lieut.-Col. A. A. Magee and Major A. S. Eve being the umpires, their opinions in full were not available till they had embodied them in their final judgment. This will be forthcoming shortly.

was upheld, and no score was counted. McGill continued to rush matters, but could not score. The Shamrock defence used every possible method to keep the McGill forwards out from the nets. In one instance, Fraser got through the defence, but one man threw his stick at him and prevented a sure score. Another time a man kicked the puck, thus preventing another score. The first half ended with the play about centre ice.

In the second half the play started to get faster and the checking harder. The whole half was a repetition of the first. The McGill forwards would go up singly, only to be shoved into the corners by the Shamrock defence. Full time ended with still no score.

The only feature of the play was in the last minute. Fraser broke away and got right through the defence, and had only the goalkeeper to pass. He tried a shot, but by some streak of luck the puck hit the goalkeeper's pads and bounced off, just missing the goal post.

At 4 o'clock the game had to be called, as the time for the use of the ice was only from 2 to 4.

The following represented McGill: Goal, M. Stewart; defence, J. Nutter and O. Trainor; forwards, L. Lowry, W. S. Fraser and W. Fowler; spares, A. S. Poe, D. Dowell, V. Harris and Jordau.

McGill Y.M.C.A. Hut.

The following letter has been received by the executives of the McGill Y.M.C.A. from members of Med. '17 serving with No. 3 Canadian General Hospital (McGill):

Dear Sirs.—Now that we have become more or less accustomed to our new surroundings, it seems only right that we should let you know how much we appreciate the work that the "Field Branch" of the McGill Y.M.C.A. is doing for us all at No. 3 Canadian General Hospital.

We, the medical students now serving with this unit, especially are grateful for this part of the Y.M.C.A. hut which has been placed at our disposal as a medical library. Here one can find, besides the standard textbooks, the best current medical literature. Thus, one is able to review past work and keep posted on recent developments in medicine and surgery. Practical proof of our appreciation is to be found in the number of students who make use of the library during their off hours.

As a body we think we owe you these expressions of our gratitude for this and many other favors we have shown us during the time we have been overseas.

We remain, Yours thankfully,

flank attack was delivered by "A" and "B" Companies, McGill C.O.T.C., under Capt. F. S. B. Heward. The Macdonald College Contingent, under Major Harrison, formed the general reserve, and were later brought up to reinforce the flank attack. The attack and defence of this position was most spirited, and showed the result of the previous tactical work that has been done by the McGill Contingent.

By force of superior numbers, the Blue party were driven from their position, and now began a retreat through the woods towards Ste. Anne's, pursued by the whole Red Force, which was now commanded by Major Harrington. During the retreat the Blue Force took up two strong positions and compelled the Red Force to deploy in order to drive them back. The last deployment was made at the edge of the woods near the Ste. Marie road, where the Blue Force made its last stand.

The whole force, attacking and defending, now assembled and marched back at a sharp gait in column of route to Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where it entrained at 5.15 p.m. for Montreal. The numerous occupants of the station made a strong temptation to those who had been ordered to keep silence till five minutes after the train left the station, and this was only satisfied by a general settlement in the left seats of the cars.

The report of the umpires is eagerly awaited by the officers and men who took part in the operation, particularly as Lieut.-Col. Magee and Major Eve, who acted as umpires, were for such a long time intimately associated with the tactical training of the McGill Contingent and are recognized as extremely able tacticians. Col. Magee pitched on all who displayed ill-judgment in showing themselves to the fire of the enemy, and the attacking force suffered one bad loss when Major Harrington was placed hors de combat by the umpire.

During the day a detachment from No. 4 Field Ambulance, under command of Lieut. Bourne, accompanied the force to look after casualties, if necessary. Lieut. R. B. Timberlake acted as railway transport officer. Special mention should be made of the work of the quartermaster, Capt. G. T. Hyde, and his subordinates, who carried out the commissariat arrangements most excellently.

While the rest of the men were engaged in these manoeuvres, the bands of the McGill Contingent, under Drum Major T. Graydon and Bandmaster C. R. Gibbs, remained at Ste. Anne's, and during the afternoon gave an impromptu sacred concert at Macdonald College.

RED CROSS WORK NOT RECOGNIZED

Bulgarian Policy Forces American Red Cross to Leave
Serbian Macedonia.

The following is a communication received by the Associated Press from Richard Schellens, an American, of Groton, Conn., brother of E. L. Schellens, Sci. '16.

Mr. Schellens, who enlisted at the beginning of the war with the American Red Cross, has been serving with Lady Page's contingent, and has just arrived at London from Uekub. Bulgaria is carrying out a policy of sweeping out the natives from Serbian Macedonia in order to completely Bulgarianize the occupied territory, and for this reason the Bulgarian authorities refused to allow the American Red Cross to carry out relief work in that section.

Ten days before he left that city, Mr. Schellens says, the Serbian element was put in a panic by a Bulgarian proclamation, ordering all Serbians who had resided in the country no longer than the last two years to pack up and leave. The period was expiring the day he left. No exceptions were made in this order—old people, children, babies, women expecting to become mothers, the sick and wounded. This, he says, was the last act of a course of systematic discrimination against and persecution of the Serbians, which in the dead of winter, with the roads in frightful condition, would mean the death of many on their long march through bleak country which had been denuded of its food supplies.

"If there ever was a country that needed relief," said Mr. Schellens, "it is Serbian Macedonia. The American Red Cross was willing to do this work. It has plenty of money, and there is a big supply of corn, wheat and other foodstuffs stored up in Roumania to draw on, but the Bulgarians did not want us, for relief workers see and hear too much. Their excuse was that the work would interfere with military operations."

"This does not hold, however, as they actually wanted the American doctors and sanitary experts to stay on, for King Ferdinand has a perfect monomania on the subject of plagues and epidemics. Such an invitation was extended to Drs. Brokaw and Forrest, contract surgeons with the Serbian army; Plotz and Baehr, attached to Lady Page's mission, and Dr. Osborne and Mr. Fox, all of the American Red Cross."

Mr. Schellens pays a high tribute to the Bulgarian peasantry. He found them a kindly, honest people, and a fine type physically.

"There is enough difference between the soldiers and their officers," continued Mr. Schellens, "to make them seem a different race. The soldiers are short and stocky; their officers are tall and of a different type of features. In fact, the soldiers are the real Bulgarian stock, while the officers are largely of foreign intermixture."

And the difference in character is just as marked. The soldiers did many kindnesses to the Serbian unfortunate when their officers weren't about. But the officers are brutal toward the civil population, and most of all the Serbs. They are under definite instructions to make life unbearable to the Serbs, so they will vacate this part of the country, out of which Bulgaria claims she was cheated after the second Balkan war. No discrimination is shown against the remaining Turkish population, however.

"The Bulgarian Government has gone systematically about the work of creating hatred of the Serbians by the Bulgars. This is an instance of which I have personal knowledge."

"When the Serbians abandoned Uekub, their authorities disposed of the worst of their civil prisoners in the simplest way. It would not do to leave a jail full of cut-throats and other dangerous criminals behind to be released by the invaders, so the Serbians simply shot them and buried them in the prison yard. When the Bulgars came they exhumed these bodies, battered them up with spades and then not only took photographs, but moving pictures of the bodies as Bulgarian victims of Serbian atrocities."

"The mass of Bulgarians are absolutely ignorant of the main facts of the present war and of the causes. They know only what they are told. But the army officers, who are extremely well paid, are all absolutely loyal to the King and strong for continuing the war."

MEET ON MONDAY. Interesting Address To Be Given on Conditions in Barbarous Lands.

The next meeting of the Oriental Society will be held this evening at 8.30 in the Engineering Building. Three speakers are to be on the programme, namely, Rev. Mr. Windsor, Mr. R. Neilson and Mr. E. A. Pitts. The speeches are to be closed under the general head of "Journeys from West to East." As the different speakers are natives of India, Africa and West Indies, they will deliver addresses on their travels and adventures while in these lands. This subject is important not only from the point of Christian missions, but also from imperial and commercial viewpoints, since they clearly demonstrate the successful conquest of high culture over low. The last named speaker will illustrate his remarks with lantern slides.

The Royal Military College of Canada

THERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government Institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial army, lent for the purpose, and there is in addition a complete staff of professors for the civil subjects which form such an important part of the College course. Medical attendance is also provided.

What the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive a practical and scientific training in subjects essential to a sound modern education.

The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by the authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years, in three terms of 9½ months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniforms, instructional material, and an extra is about $800.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College, takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military divisions and districts.

For full particulars regarding the examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College Kingston, Ont.

command of Dr. R. de L. Harwood, Med. '95, is named as one of the units about to proceed overseas at an early date.

Lieut. D. B. Armstrong, Sci. '16; O. M. Stitt, Sci. '08; J. D. Armstrong, Sci. '12; J. H. Forbes, Sci. '08, and G. A. Johnson, Sci. '12, hold commissions in the Canadian Engineers, and are in training at the Engineers' Depot, Lansdowne Park, Ottawa.

E. S. Blanchard, Sci. '10, is in training at the Royal School of Infantry at Halifax, N.S., preparatory to securing a commission for overseas service.

"Buster" Reid Returns.

Lieut. G. Eric ("Buster") Reid, Arts '15 was in the city on Thursday on his return from France, where he was serving with the 3rd Battalion, C.E.F. Lieut. Reid is home on sick leave for two months, and is still suffering from wounds received while fighting in France. He has lost the use of several fingers of his left hand, and will have to undergo an operation before returning to England. Lieut. Reid left for his home in London, Ont. He will return to Montreal next week.

Lieut. Reid returned as second in command of a party of wounded soldiers.

Lieut. E. F. Newcombe, Law '13, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, is still at No. 14 General Hospital at Boulogne, suffering from a gunshot wound in the neck. He is also reported dangerously ill. Lieut. Newcombe left Canada as lieutenant and assistant adjutant of the 21st Eastern Ontario Battalion. He was wounded by a rifle grenade.

The Chief Press Censor announces that the 9th Field Artillery Brigade has reached England. Among McGill men with it are the following: Lieut. W. W. Boyd, Sci. '12; Lieut. M. M. Johnston, Arts '15; Lieut. J. B. L. Henery, Sci. '16.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Dowling, Ottawa, have received a cable from their son, Allan P. Dowling, past student, announcing that he has received his commission as lieutenant in the 1st Battalion, 1st Brigade. He is spending his leave in England. Lieut. Dowling has served in France since the Canadians crossed with the Machine Gun Section.

Lieut.-Col. Peters, Med. '98, officer commanding No. 9 Field Ambulance here, which will shortly go overseas, was presented with a pocket case at the monthly meeting of the Newfoundland Society. The presentation was made by Lieut.-Col. E. M. Renouf, who referred to the excellent work done by Lieut.-Col. Peters as president of the society. The officer, after acknowledging the gift, gave an interesting address on the work of a Field Ambulance Corps while on active service.

To Be Made Judge.

A well-defined rumor, which is pleasing to McGill men, and those of the Faculty of Law in particular, is to the effect that Prof. Edouard Fabre Surveyl, Law '96, is to fill the judgeship left vacant by the death of Mr. Justice St. Pierre.

Prof. Surveyl was educated at St. Mary's (Jesuit) College, where he received high honors in rhetoric and letters. He graduated from McGill in 1896 with the degree of B.C.L. with honors, and completed his law studies in Paris, taking part in the first International Congress of Lawyers, held in Brussels in 1897. He has been an editor of the Quebec Practice Reports since their establishment in 1897, and is looked upon as one of the leaders of the local Bar, having been President of the Junior Bar Association in 1904. Since 1905 Prof. Surveyl has lectured at McGill on Procedure, and is one of the most popular of the members of the Faculty. He has successfully pleaded before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and has published the Code of Procedure.

At present Mr. Surveyl is chief of the law firm of Surveyl, Ogden & Coonan, a correspondent for several American, French and Belgian law firms, and is secretary of the Canadian Bar Association.

THIS GRADUATE LIVED IN WOODS

John Dowler Freeman.

The strange story of a college graduate who gave himself up entirely to the betterment of rural conditions in his community and who built himself a little hut in the woods to demonstrate how simply he could live, is uncarried by the sudden death of John Dowler Freeman, past student, near Buckingham, Que. Mr. Freeman graduated with honors from McGill and was only 24 years of age. Some time ago he built himself a little hut in the woods north of Buckingham and had been staying there. Members of the family, relatives and friends usually spent weekends with him. He was in the habit of mailing a letter to his family in the intervening time. When he made no appearance with the letter for some days, his nearest neighbor, Mr. Couture, became alarmed, and on investigation found the hut burned and the young man dead about 150 yards from the ruins.

On the previous week-end Mr. Freeman's brother and a college friend had been guests at the hut, and, noticing the poor condition of the stovepipes, had warned the deceased against fire. It is thought that he rushed from the hut half-suffocated and died from exposure in his weak condition.

Arthur Putnam Scott.

Arthur Putnam Scott, B.A., B.Sc., a McGill graduate, who gained a name for himself as a chemist and metallurgist while connected with the Dominion Coal Company, the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, the General Electric Company, and other large corporations, died Thursday morning at the Montreal General Hospital after a very short illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Scott, who was the eldest son of the Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott, editor of the Presbyterian Record, was born in Milford, N.S., on December 24, 1876. He was educated at the public schools in New Glasgow, N.S., at the Montreal High School, where he was a medalist, and at McGill University, where he took courses in both Arts and Applied Science. Mr. Scott was graduated in Arts in 1896 with the degree of B.A., and gold medal in natural science, and was graduated in Science two years later with the degree of B.Sc., and the British Association gold medal.

For a year after graduation, Mr. Scott was demonstrator in chemistry at the University, and left here to become assistant chemist with the Dominion Coal Co. In 1900 he accepted a similar position with the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, and in 1904 was promoted to become chief chemist and engineer of tests with the same corporation. Mr. Scott remained with the Dominion Iron and Steel Company until 1908, when he entered the research laboratory of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N.Y., as metallurgist. Later he became connected with the Allegheny Steel Company at Pittsburgh.

At the end of January, Mr. Scott came to Montreal to supervise the installation of an electric furnace at the Thomas Davidson Co. plant. He was taken ill, and removed to the General Hospital on February 9. A wife survives.

LETTER FROM A LADY PRISONER

Interesting Account of Experience of An Englishwoman, a War Prisoner in Serbia.

The following is an interesting letter from an Englishwoman who is a prisoner of war in Serbia. The letter appeared in a recent number of The Common Cause:

"Who would have thought that I should ever be a prisoner of war? But such is indeed the case: Wonders will never cease. Perhaps I had better wish you all a happy Christmas and a bright New Year, and when you eat turkey and plum pudding and mince pies, you can think of me not having any supper.

"Talking about shoes, I am wearing a pair that were really meant for somebody's uncle. They are No. 7 in men's sizes, and are filled up with uncle's socks, but are splendid for the snow. Two days ago we had the first fall, and it was very cold. To-day it is thawing quickly.

"Well, this is a fashionable watering-place, a spa folded in the hills, and very pretty, with an extensive view. We move again in a few days. I am quite excited about writing a letter, but it is very difficult not to show your hand. At present we are working in a Serbian hospital. I am an orderly. This is my day: Rise at 6.30, dress, and make breakfast for Miss — and self; do our room and go to hospital, ten minutes' walk; sweep and dust wards and corridors, and scrub sometimes. Do odd jobs till 12.30, when we return to our room and have dinner—stew and bread, sugar and cocoa. 2 p.m., return to hospital, wash dirty bandages and roll clean ones, and do the lamps and oddments till 4.30, when we go back for tea—bread and sugar and jam (just now). Then we light our fires with sticks we pick up in our off-time, and in turn we have a good wash in our basin. I generally have a sleep till supper, at seven—stew and sausages, bread and sugar, sometimes tea; bed very soon after, generally about nine. Unfortunately we have no books to read. That is my day. Saturday, day off, when we generally scrub our floor and do a washing. The unit is all together. More and more I am lost in admiration of Dr. Hutchison. She is A1 in every possible way. We are all living in an empty house, so many in each room. Miss — and I are together, and we sleep in a single bed, on a wire mattress with folded rugs (no hair mattress), and it is quite comfortable. We have a washstand, wardrobe and table in our room, which is sunny, with two windows. We eat in our own rooms; we make our own breakfast and tea, and at dinner and supper a huge pot is carried around, and we all get helped, so that we eat, sleep and live in one room. The hospital is in another building. I am reduced to my golfing hat for everything; that is all between me and a 'shawl' over my head! A candle lasts two nights, and a box of matches many mornings.

"You must not be anxious about me. I am fine. Some day you will enjoy it all with me. You cannot imagine how often I think of you all and long to hear from you."

COMMEND HARVARD REGIMENT.

Some 1,100 Harvard undergraduates crowded into the living room of the Harvard Union to hear President Lowell, Major-General Leonard Wood, Captain Cordier and Major Henry L. Higginson express their views on military affairs in general and their approval of Harvard's regimental movement in particular.

Things Theatrical

AT HIS MAJESTY'S.

"The Charity Ball," that classic of the new country's drama by Belasco and de Mille, occupied a large place in the craft of the theatre twenty years ago, for most of the younger generation of finished actors associate it with their beginnings. Its popularity is easily seen in the fact that Ainsworth Arnold and Miss Margie Dow, of the George F. Driscoll Players, have played every one of the eight important parts in the play, which will be revived at His Majesty's Theatre this week. E. H. Sothorn, Herbert Kelsey, Georgia Cavan and Nelson Wheatcroft played in the original production at Frohman's Lyceum.

Mr. Gordon Hammond, whose work Montreal is familiar with through the Montreal Opera Company's mountings, who prepared the elaborate setting in the ballroom and rectory, also has pleasant memories of the days when he was a pupil of Richard Marston, the English scenic artist, who prepared the original settings which set a new standard in mountings for the American stage. Mr. Hammond himself worked on these original settings, and has gone about with every affection for his teacher and his work in preparing perhaps his most ambitious achievement this season.

Two brothers, whose deadly anger, aroused through one woman, is melted by the entrance of their blind mother, who, unconscious of their differences, recalls to their minds lovely old-time memories they had forgotten long since; and of their sister, who, by her simple love confession, points their divergent paths of renunciation and duty, constitute the working-out of a theme of strong ramifying influence that is understood by everybody. And that is why "The Charity Ball," the bill by the George F. Driscoll Players at His Majesty's Theatre, thirty years old, is being revived.

The conflict is between the two brothers Van Buren, John, a rector, and Dick, who drives himself until he becomes master of Wall Street. The rector, fine, indulgent, loving, affords Ainsworth Arnold a new opportunity to show his powers of action in response, while Richard Dix, the new leading man, will have his first opportunity in a part well suited to his driving power and vitality. The climax in the play, Act 3, finds these two almost at his each's throat, when the scene at their mother occurs, one of the most pathetically dramatic in all drama. Miss Dollie Davis plays the mother. Then follows the scene written and placed by those excellent craftsmen, Belasco and de Mille, whereby the sister of the brothers, in her story of her own love, points out their future paths. Both men are in love with Phyllis Lee, played by Miss Templeton. She loves Dick, the financier. The scene is irresistible, and the running of the gamut of human emotion has an appeal which stirs every listener in a manner rarely accomplished without tawdry, trite, artificial, since such plays were written thirty years ago.

The rector has all the time been really in love, unknown to himself, with Ann Gruger, a large-hearted womanly woman, such as are seen so rarely nowadays. Miss D'Arcy, with her altogether feminine charm, will play this part. Mr. Webb and Miss Dow will appear in their happiest moods, the former as Judge Knox, whose rugged, humorous type is rarely seen in modern plays, because such men are not developed nowadays, and Miss Dow as Mrs. de Peyster, also a rare type of New York society woman. Mr. Leduc plays Franklin Gruger, disputing the mastery of the financial world with Dick Van Buren, and Miss Preston and Mr. Basham are young lovers as Bess Van Buren and Alec Robinson.

AT THE CONNAUGHT.

"The Man Who Couldn't Beat God" will be given at the Connaught to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday, the cast including Maurice Costello, Thos. Mills, Denton Vane, Edwin Robbins, Marion Henry, Robert Gaillard, Estelle Mardo and Naomi Childers.

Martin Henchford, a man of peculiar character, believed that he could erase from his soul every vestige of the scar of murder. He had grown up on the spacious Rexford estate, and, as the son of Lord Rexford's gardener, had become an employee. Goaded by the cruelty of the nobleman, Martin kills him, and so conceals every trace of his deed that he is not even suspected. He goes to New York where he secures work in the construction gang tunnelling under the big river. He takes a prominent part in a daring rescue, and, as he brings out the last drowning man he does not see in the prostrate form his fellow-laborer, but instead, a vision of the man he had killed back in England. Thus starts an ever-increasing series of visions produced by conscience. Promotion, honor and wealth become his; he marries a beautiful girl, and still he is haunted more and more by those terrifying visions. He is drawn almost irresistibly back to England, and there on the spot where he had struck Lord Rexford down, Martin is attacked by heart failure and dies.

The Connaught Duo, Miss McGovern and Mr. Edwards, will sing one of the season's latest hits, with Miss Mantha at the piano.

WILLARD TO SHOW PECULIAR POWERS

To Professors and Students of the Medical Faculty This Week.

A demonstration of the remarkable powers of Willard, "The Man Who Grows," will be given this week at McGill College before the professors and students of the Medical Faculty.

Willard is able to increase his height at will by seven and a half inches without the dislocation or separation of joints and without moving heels or toes from the floor; also to increase the length of his arms by four inches to fifteen inches without dislocation or separation of the joints; also to elongate an additional two inches with perfect ease and without an effort.

Willard, who will be at the Orpheum Theatre this week, says:

"Since introducing this elongation, I have never had an ache or a pain or any trouble with my stomach. It is a beneficial exercise. I have been examined by thousands of medical men (and different medical societies) and institutes in the British Isles, America, France, Germany, Russia, Spain and Portugal, and it seemed always to prove a wonderfully scientific demonstration.

"At my initial performance in England, I submitted myself to Sir Thomas Oliver, Dr. Fortune and many other medical men to undergo a complete examination, after which they pronounced the condition most wonderful and free from trickery. Here is an extract from the Newcastle Evening Mail:

"Sir Thomas Oliver stated that he could give no explanation of Willard's demonstration. It was certainly a case by itself. Willard had gained his ability by long practice. Other medical men who saw the examination stated it is the most wonderful case they had ever witnessed."

Lives a Normal Life.

"I live a perfectly normal life, with practically no likes or dislikes in regard to food. I take a drink occasionally, but am temperate. I indulge occasionally in golf and athletics, but have not had any extraordinary success in any line.

"Since childhood, I have never had any illness to speak of. I follow no established system of physical culture, but I have laid down my own method, which is one of extreme simplicity and in no way strenuous.

"As far as I know, I am the only man in the world who has ever been able to demonstrate this 'Growth at Will,' and I am willing to submit any demonstration to any committee of scientists or medical men at any time, and at the same time to give what information I can by explanation of the peculiar condition which enables me to accomplish these feats.

"I am anxious to assist the medical profession in any way I can, or in any way they can suggest to further the interests of anatomical research, believing as I do that my discovery may lead to the benefit of humanity.

"By using my method of exercise five minutes a day, any one can increase their height, much to their surprise, several inches within a few months; and, what is more, they can maintain the added height."

several minutes of play, in which North Branch held their own for the first time in the game. Major scored for North Branch. McGill scored a foul. Duncan scored. Major scored. The North Branch was having somewhat the better of the play. Loughery scored. Clarke scored a nice one. Clarke scored again. Loughery scored. Final score was 24 to 8 for McGill. All the McGill team played well, but Loughery and Davis figured most prominently by their aggressiveness. Loughery found the basket nearly every time he shot. Major played a good game at forward for North Branch. The North Branch juniors were handicapped in much the same way as the McGill intermediates, by having to wear white jerseys, and could have put up a much better game otherwise. The line-up:

McGill. North Branch.
Davis forward Major
Clarke forward Carmichael
Loughery centre Elliott
Cowan defence Allan
Corriveau defence Huft

The McGill teams will play the Westmont Y. M. C. A. at the Central Y. M. C. A. on Saturday next. It is absolutely essential that the intermediates win this game, as they will be out of the running if they should lose again. This is the last game of the regular schedule, and possibly the last chance for the McGill men to see them in action this year. The junior game will undoubtedly be a good one, as now they have tasted of victory they are out for more. They anticipate giving the Westmonters the struggle of their lives.

California is considering a radical change in the preferred course in journalism. It is argued that the present course is not appropriate to the type of work done by prospective newspaper men.

Entertained Kingston Audience in Aid of the Red Cross Funds.

The Kingston Standard says: A large audience was delightfully entertained in Grant Hall last evening by Dr. Stephen Leacock, Professor of Political Economy in McGill University, who gave two humorous sketches in his own inimitable way.

The Red Cross Society chose one of the most interesting entertainers when it brought Prof. Leacock here, declared the chairman, Mr. J. L. Whiting, K.C. The latter also stated the United States could boast of only one humorist, Mark Twain, and Canada could also boast of one in the person of the entertainer of the evening, Mr. Whiting emphasized the fact that Prof. Leacock was a native born Canadian and a natural born humorist. Prof. Leacock, explained the speaker, was giving his services free, and all proceeds would go undiminished towards the funds of the Red Cross Society.

Previous to the first reading by Prof. Leacock, Miss Carrie Bajus sweetly rendered a solo, and before the second reading, Miss Bajus again captivated the audience by her rendering of two more solos.

The first sketch by the Montreal artist was entitled "Germany From Within." In this the views of a first-class pessimist of the Allied cause or the musings of a jackass were narrated. This jackass was, of course, one who had not been any further than Berlin, Ont., said Prof. Leacock. In this sketch were brought out Bernstorff's supposedly confidential letters to criminals, the economic principles of the German Empire, how supposedly German spies, who served as waiters in hotels and restaurants each evening telegraphed to the Fatherland what they had found out that day, how soldiers might invade Canada without suffering from drought because the spies had made maps showing where all the breweries were located. Numerous other similar musings of the German jackass were given, and the whole coupled together kept the large audience in a continuous spell of side-splitting laughter. Finally, the speaker touched upon that vital question of Germany to-day, namely, decreasing financial resources, and, after developing this point, he declared he woke up, thus bringing this German dream to a close. Hearty applause was given Prof. Leacock as he took his seat.

The second reading was a supposed drama or modern problem play, as the speaker termed it. It was entitled "Behind the Beyond."

The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem after a hearty vote of thanks had been given Prof. Leacock by the chairman in behalf of the Red Cross Society.
